Report Summary

- This report describes the results of a visitor study at Women’s Rights National Historical Park (NHP) during June 28 - July 12, 2009. A total of 340 questionnaires were distributed to visitor groups. Of those, 243 questionnaires were returned, resulting in a 71.5% response rate.

- This report profiles a systematic random sample of Women’s Rights NHP visitors. Most results are presented in graphs and frequency tables. Summaries of visitor comments are included in the report and complete comments are included in the Visitor Comments Appendix.

- Fifty percent of visitor groups were in groups of two and 30% were in groups of three or four. Seventy-five percent of visitor groups were in family groups.

- United States visitors comprised 95% of total visitation during the survey period, with 33% from New York, and smaller proportions from 37 other states and Washington, D.C. International visitors were from 10 countries and comprised 5% of total visitation.

- Most visitors (87%) were visiting the park for the first time, while 8% had visited two times in their lifetime. Ninety-four percent of visitors used one vehicle to arrive at the park.

- Most visitor groups (86%) obtained information about the park prior to their visit. The most commonly used sources of information were the park website (32%) and travel guides/tour books (31%). Sixty percent indicated they would prefer to obtain information for a future visit from the park website.

- Of those visitors who stayed overnight in the area within 20 miles of the park, 47% stayed one night. Twenty-six percent spent two nights in the area. Of the visitors who stayed overnight in the area, 75% stayed in lodges, hotels, vacation rentals, B&B, etc.

- Forty-four percent of visitor groups spent two hours visiting the park, while 40% spent one hour. The most common site visited by visitor groups was the visitor center (97%), followed by Wesleyan Chapel (68%).

INTRODUCTION

This report describes the results of a visitor study at Women’s Rights National Historical Park (NHP), conducted June 28 - July 12, 2009 by the National Park Service (NPS) Visitor Services Project (VSP), part of the Park Studies Unit (PSU) at the University of Idaho.

The National Park Service website for Women’s Rights NHP describes it: “In 1848 Elizabeth Cady Stanton and four other women invited the public to the First Women's Rights Convention to discuss expanding the role of women in America. At the end of the two days, 100 people made a public commitment to work together to improve women’s quality of life. While women have achieved greater equality with the vote, property rights, and education, the revolution continues today” (www.nps.gov/wori November, 2009).

Organization of the report

The report is organized into three sections.

Section 1: Methods. This section discusses the procedures, limitations, and special conditions that may affect the results of the study.

Section 2: Results. This section provides summary information for each question in the questionnaire and includes a summary of visitor comments. The presentation of the results of this study does not follow the order of questions in the questionnaire.

Section 3: Appendices

Appendix 1: The Questionnaire. A copy of the questionnaire distributed to visitor groups.

Appendix 2: Additional Analysis. A list of sample questions for cross-references and cross comparisons. Comparisons can be analyzed within park or between parks. Results of additional analyses are not included in this report.

Appendix 3: Decision rules for checking non-response bias. An explanation of how the non-response bias was determined.

Appendix 4: Visitor Services Project Publications. A complete list of publications by the VSP. Copies of these reports can be obtained by visiting the website: www.psu.uidaho.edu/vsp/reports.htm or by contacting the VSP office at (208) 885-7863.

Visitor Comments Appendix: A separate appendix provides visitor responses to open-ended questions. It is bound separately from this report due to its size.
Presentation of the results

Results are represented in the form of graphs (see example below), scatter plots, pie charts, tables, or text.

SAMPLE ONLY

1: The figure title describes the graph's information.

2: Listed above the graph, the “N” shows the number of individuals or visitor groups responding to the question. If “N” is less than 30, “CAUTION!” is shown on the graph to indicate the results may be unreliable.

* appears when total percentages do not equal 100 due to rounding.

 appears when total percentages do not equal 100 because visitors could select more than one answer choice.

3: Vertical information describes the response categories.

4: Horizontal information shows the number or proportions of responses in each category.

5: In most graphs, percentages provide additional information.

METHODS

Survey Design

Sample size and sampling plan

All VSP questionnaires follow design principles outlined in Don A. Dillman's book Mail and Internet Surveys: The Tailored Design Method (2007). Using this methodology, the sample size was calculated based on the park visitation statistics of previous years.

Brief interviews were conducted with a systematic, random sample of visitor groups that arrived at Women’s Rights National Historical Park during June 28 - July 12, 2009. All questionnaires were distributed in the visitor center. Visitors were surveyed between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. During this survey, 346 visitor groups were contacted and 340 of these groups (98.3%) accepted questionnaires (average acceptance rate for 205 VSP visitor studies is 91.4%). Questionnaires were completed and returned by 243 visitor groups resulting in a 71.5% response rate for this study. The average response rate for the 205 VSP visitor studies conducted from 1988 through 2008 is 74.2%.

Questionnaire design

The Women’s Rights National Historical Park questionnaire was developed at a workshop held with park staff to design and prioritize the questions. Some of the questions were comparable with VSP studies conducted at other parks while others were customized for Women’s Rights National Historical Park. Many questions asked visitors to choose answers from a list of responses, often with an open-ended option, while others were completely open-ended.

No pilot study was conducted to test the Women’s Rights National Historical Park questionnaire. However, all questions followed Office of Management and Budget (OMB) guidelines and/or were used in previous surveys. Thus, the clarity and consistency of the survey instrument have been tested and supported.

Survey procedure

Visitor groups were greeted, briefly introduced to the purpose of the study, and asked to participate. If visitors agreed, they were asked which member (at least 16 years old) had the next birthday. The individual with the next birthday was selected to complete the questionnaire for the group. An interview, lasting approximately two minutes, was conducted with that person to determine group size, group type, and the age of the member completing the questionnaire. These individuals were asked for their names, addresses, and telephone numbers or email addresses in order to mail them a reminder/thank you postcard and follow-ups. Visitors were asked to complete the survey after their visit, and return the questionnaire by mail. The questionnaires were pre-addressed and affixed with a U.S. first class postage stamp.

Two weeks following the survey, a reminder/thank you postcard was mailed to all participants who provided a valid mailing address (see Table 1). Replacement questionnaires were mailed to participants who had not returned their questionnaires four weeks after the survey. Seven weeks after the survey, a second round of replacement questionnaires was mailed to visitors who had not returned their questionnaires.

Data Analysis

Returned questionnaires were coded and the visitor responses were processed using custom and standard statistical software applications—Statistical Analysis Software® (SAS), and a custom designed FileMaker Pro® application. Descriptive statistics and cross-tabulations were calculated for the coded data and responses to open-ended questions were categorized and summarized. Double-key data entry validation was performed on numeric and text entry variables and the remaining checkbox (bubble) variables were read by optical mark recognition (OMR) software.

Limitations

Like all surveys, this study has limitations that should be considered when interpreting the results.

1. This was a self-administered survey. Respondents completed the questionnaire after the visit, which may have resulted in poor recall. Thus, it is not possible to know whether visitor responses reflected actual behavior.
2. The data reflect visitor use patterns to the selected sites during the study period of June 28 - July 12, 2009. The results present a ‘snapshot-in-time’ and do not necessarily apply to visitors during other times of the year.
3. Caution is advised when interpreting any data with a sample size of less than 30, as the results may be unreliable. Whenever the sample size is less than 30, the word "CAUTION!" is included in the graph, figure, table, or text.
4. Occasionally, there may be inconsistencies in the results. Inconsistencies arise from missing data or incorrect answers (due to misunderstood directions, carelessness, or poor recall of information). Therefore, refer to both the percentage and N (number of individuals or visitor groups) when interpreting the results.
Special Conditions

The weather during the survey period was generally sunny and warm, with occasional rain showers, which may have affected visitor activities and length of stay. Temperatures ranged from upper 60s to mid 70s. Questionnaires were distributed during the 4th of July, and although no special events took place in the park during that day, visitation numbers may have been affected.

Checking Non-response Bias

Three variables were used to check non-response bias: respondents’ age, travel distance from home to the park, overall quality rating score, and level of education. There were no significant differences between early and late responders in any of these variables (see Table 2). Non-response bias is thus judged to be insignificant. See Appendix 3 for more details of the non-response bias checking procedures.

Appendix 2: Additional Analysis

The Visitor Services Project (VSP) offers the opportunity to learn more from VSP visitor study data through additional analysis. Two-way and three-way cross tabulations can be made with any questions.

Below are some examples of the types of cross tabulations that can be requested. To make a request, please use the contact information below, and include your name, address and phone number in the request.

1. What proportion of family groups with children attend interpretive programs?
2. Is there a correlation between visitors’ ages and their preferred sources of information about the park?
3. Are highly satisfied visitors more likely to return for a future visit?
4. How many international visitors participate in hiking?
5. What ages of visitors would use the park website as a source of information on a future visit?
6. Is there a correlation between visitor groups’ rating of the overall quality of their park experience, and their ratings of individual services and facilities?
7. Do larger visitor groups (e.g., four or more) participate in different activities than smaller groups?
8. Do frequent visitors rate the overall quality of their park experiences differently than less frequent visitors?

Appendix 3: Decision Rules for Checking Non-response Bias

Non-response bias is one of the major threats to the quality of a survey project. It affects the ability to generalize from a sample to general population (Salant and Dillman 1994; Dillman, 2007; Stoop 2004; Filion 1976; Dey 1997). Since non-response bias is usually caused by participants failing to return their questionnaires, a higher response rate is more desirable. However, higher response rates do not guarantee low non-response bias. Researchers have suggested different methods to detect non-response bias. The most common variables used to detect non-response bias are demographic variables. Some researchers such as Van Kenhove (2002), Groves (2000) also suggest that saliency of topic has an effect on response rate. In our visitor study, visitors’ satisfaction (overall quality rating) could be considered as one of the salient factors as we aim to collect opinions from both unsatisfied and satisfied visitors. There are also several methods for checking non-response bias suggested in the literature. We decided to follow the method suggested by Groves (2006), De Rada (2005), and Rogelberg and Luong (1998) to compare the demographic characteristics as well as satisfaction scores of respondents in three different mailing waves. This seems to be the most suitable method because the visitor population is generally unknown.

Respondents were categorized based on the date their questionnaire was received. The first wave is defined as surveys received before the 1st replacement, the second wave is between 1st and 2nd replacement and the third wave contains surveys received after the 2nd replacement. Analysis of variance was used to detect differences in age, number of lifetime visits, distance of travel to the park, and overall quality rating scores among different mailing waves. If the p-value is greater than 0.05, the difference is judged to be insignificant.

Therefore, the hypotheses for checking non-response bias are:

1. Respondents of different mailing waves have the same average age.
2. On average respondents of different mailing waves traveled the same distance to the park.
3. Respondents of different mailing waves have the same average satisfaction scores.

Table 2 shows no significant difference in any of these variables. This indicates that the result was not biased toward any group of visitors. Therefore, non-response bias is judged to be insignificant.
